'Talented Women in Review' marks firsts for Woman's Club

By MARILYN MORRISON
News-Post Staff Writer

Wednesday was a day of firsts for the Arcadia Women's Club. It was the first meeting of the new year, Arcadia's two foreign exchange students gave their first public speeches and it was the first time the club departments had collaborated to present a program.

The day was a tremendous success from start to finish.

The program had all elements from the sublime to the ridiculous and the concluding skit left the audience in gales of laughter.

Mrs. Frank Smith, program chairman, introduced the department feature, "Talented Women in Review."

The International Department presented Mrs. Thomas Hiatt, student speech chairman for the AFS. Mrs. Hiatt explained the highlights of the AFS program and went on to say:

"AFS students, those who come here and those we send abroad, are the finest examples of each land."

Adriana Baiocchi enchanted the audience with a simple direct account of her family and the life she led in Italy. "Dinner," related Adrianna," is the symbol of Italian life." The town she comes from is about the same population as Arcadia, but considerably more compact. She stressed in several ways the importance of the family and commented that there was less emphasis in Italy, on activities.

"Argentina is four times the size of Texas and is 90 per cent Catholic" commented Maria Molins as she spoke vivaciously of her country and its customs. In Argentina students go through seven grades, then must pursue 13 subjects in high school before they may enter the university. Unlike our system the students often are together their entire school career. Right now Maria's former classmates are on "summer" vacation.

Mrs. Della Cox and Mrs. Leonard Cartwright represented the Music Department with several selections of piano-duet artistry. This mother-daughter combination was a study in synchronization as they played Lizst's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2." They concluded their portion of the program with a deft rendition of the old favorite "Sweet Little Alice Blue Gown."

"Sometimes our mouths go as fast as our hands" commented Mrs. Henrietta Loffler as she spoke of the Arts and Craft Department, which meets at the Clubhouse on the second Tuesday of each month.

The group makes bazaar items and projects to take to convalescent homes, have demonstrations, and decorate the tables for the Clubhouse.

Mrs. Loeffler gave a demonstration on the art of making parchment paper flowers.

Mrs. Bruce McAbery represented the Literature Department. She introduced Mrs. Marion Carr who read a beautiful letter written by her brother many years ago, on Christmas Day. The letter was for his two daughters and the essence of it applied to the spirit of Christmas and Jesus being a guideline throughout the entire year.

A skit "The Doctor Isn't In" was the product of Thespians Mmes. L. Leroy Blodgett, William C. Parquette Sr., George W. Blanchard, Michael Erickson and Charles Neuberg.

The various ailments perpetrated by the cast concluded the meeting on a note of hilarity.

The business section of the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Eugene C. Rothenberger, president.

Club Achievements For Year Reviewed

As the Woman's Club of America brings the season to a close, it points to "The Other Side of the Coin" in reviewing its year of purpose and accomplishment under the guidance of Mrs. Eugene C. Rothenberger, 1967-68 president.

Champagne brunches, bridge parties and fashion shows may appear on the surface as frivolous pursuits. Fun they are, delighted members agree, but they cover a multitude of worthwhile effort.

Behind the happy events is the work and fund-raising that carries on the club's contribution to community service and philanthropies.

This year, the club as a whole has contributed to the aid of Indian Affairs, Pacific State Hospital Rustic Camp for mentally retarded children, a music scholarship, Hallmark scholarship, Poster scholarship, Braille Institute subscriptions to Readers Digest, books for Costello Community Library on East Olympic Blvd. in Los Angeles, the new Kidney Dialysis Center, and the HEAR Foundation.

Scholarship

An individual annual scholarship was awarded to a young Arcadian to aid in the continuation of his studies in veterinary medicine. He is attending Pasadena City College and wants to continue to biological research.

Each club department aids in the projects and each also contributes individually.

The International Department donated cash to CARE, Radio Free Europe, American Field Service and Meals for Millions.

The Music Department held auditions for students of Areadia High School. The winner was a charming harpist who was given a $25 award and represented the club at the Arts Festival in Sierra Madre.

The Literature Department made a donation to the general charity fund of the club, aided in the donation to the Braille Institute and to the Costello Community Library.

Garden Department members contributed $25 for Pennies for Pines. Arts and Crafts Department decorated plastic boxes and filled them with homemade cookies for 40 hospital patients.

Art Program

One of the most ambitious department projects was carried out by the Art and Pennies for Art chairman, who held a contest for the youth of Arcadia. In order to generate enthusiasm for the project, Mrs. Douglas G. Schinke held an old-fashioned ice cream social at her home and raised $21.53 toward the art scholarship fund. She created so much enthusiasm among the local students that more than 400 participated in competition.

Students starting at kindergarten level and going through high school took part. Contests were held at all levels and awards were made. Final judging took more than nine hours.

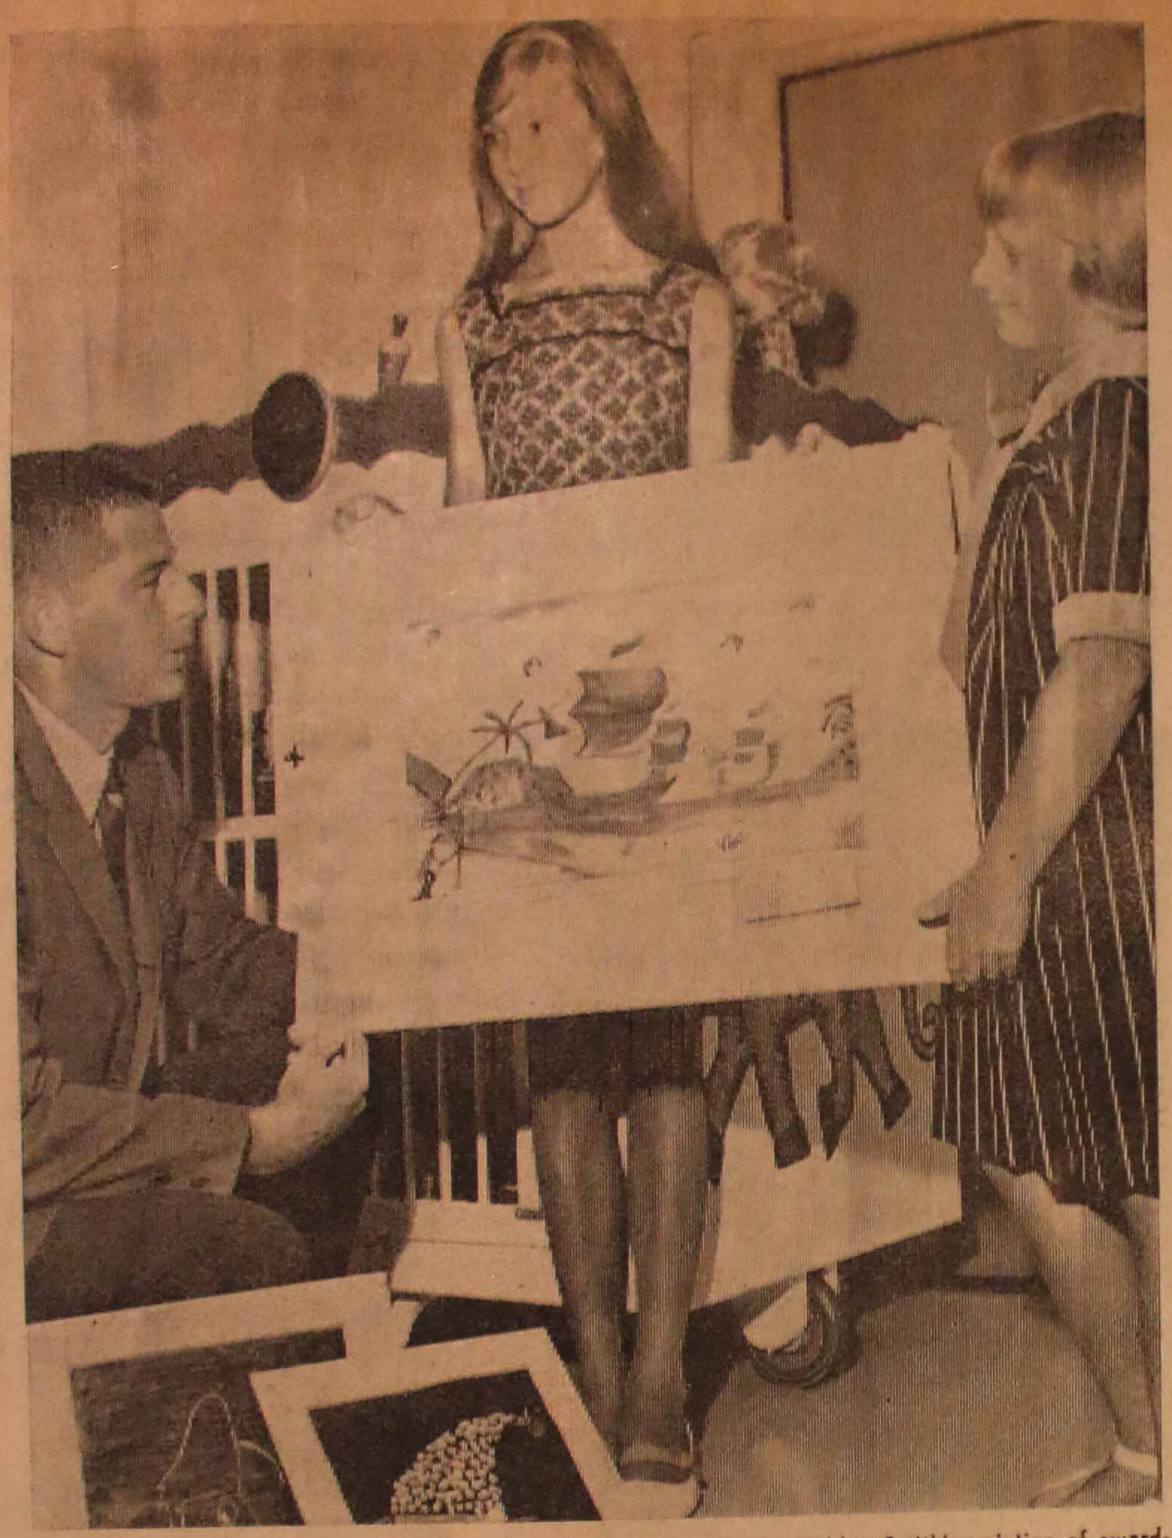
Certificates, ribbons and cash awards were presented to top winners. These art works won top awards at the CFWC District and State levels.

New Projects

The Club engaged in two new and outstanding community endeavors this year. First was the Starlite Pops Concert held on Hinshaw's Department Store upper level parking area. Local business men and merchants cooperated to make it a success. The Pico-Rivera Stage Band performed for the occasion with the Crown City Chapter of Sweet Adelines adding their voices during intermission.

The Woman's Club hopes this will become an annual event adding cultural charm to the community.

The second project was one of city beautification. Entrance-ways into the city will have markers displaying medallions of civic organizations. The artful structure of dark slate is six feet high and 15 feet wide and will bear bronze emblems. It won a district award for the club.



OF SAILING SHIPS and clowns, bunnies and owls are the pictures which young student artists are sharing with the young patients in Methodist Hospital. William Sloss, assistant hospital administrator, admires Debbie Smith's painting of award-winning sail ship. Sandra Solomon, right, has brought some of her pictures also, under Arcadia Woman's Club sponsorship.

Young Artists Share Work With Patients

Children in the Methodist Hospital of Arcadia are delighted to have new pictures to enjoy for another two weeks.

The Arcadia Woman's Club has sponsored art displays at the hospital of work done by young people in the Arcadia School District. Many of these paintings are award winners.

It has been the hope of the Woman's Club to bring a ray of sunshine into the lives of those boys and girls who have had to be in the hospital during the summer, by providing them colorful art to enjoy.

Debie Smith, seventh grade student of First Avenue School has always liked to paint and has a water color of an award-winning sail ship on display along with a still life of fruit, a clown and others. Debie's father Bryan Smith, is an outstanding artist and has about 10 trophies for his art. Debie is following in his footsteps and is expected to also win many ribbons.

Sandra Solomon is a 4th grade student from Baldwin Stocker school and has loaned several of her works also. One of her nicest pictures is that of an owl made of pine cone pieces with two acorn caps for eyes. This is on a forest green background of burlap. She also made a picture of a calico bunny and a tree with light green, stand-out leaves.

The Arcadia Woman's Club will sponsor an art contest for children of all grade levels and hope to give a scholarship to the first place winners of the Hallmark contest and the poster contest.

To raise money for these scholarships the club is having an old-fashion, home-made ice cream social on Friday, August 25 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the home of Mrs. D. G. Schinke, 333 W. Lemon Ave. There will be cake and punch too.

Come and bring your friends and children.

Mrs. Schinke is club art chairman. Inquiries about the art contest and other events may be directed to her at 445-1678.

Woman's Club Has Exhibit at Hospital

Children at the Methodist Hospital are enjoying art work by people of their own age, through a program set up by the Woman's Club of Arcadia. For two weeks Mike Sanders has loaned his beautiful fish picture that won second place last February in the Woman's Club Verdugo District Art Contest. Twenty-two school districts competed in the contest.

Mike made his fish of a brown bag and used candy life-savers for the bubbles the fish is blowing. The background is blue and black woven construction paper. Mike will enter the fourth grade at Holly Avenue School this September but during the summer is busy with his art work. A number of his other works are also on display. One is accompanied with an original poem.

Grant and Dale Stevens, sixth grade students from Baldwin Stocker School, have also been busy during the summer. Their paintings, a floral arrangement and a display of fruit and vegetables are also on exhibit at the hospital.

ART PRIZE—Mrs. Douglas G. Schinke, Art and Pennies for Art chairman of Arcadia Woman's Club, displays oil landscape won at the state convention in recognition of the club's art project. The painting will hang over the clubhouse fireplace.

Woman's Club Wins State Art Prize

For the second year in a row the Arcadia Woman's Club has won first place for their Art and Pennies for Art project report in the state of California.

During the state convention at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, Mrs. Douglas G. Schinke, Art and Pennies for Art chairman for the Club, was awarded a landscape oil painting for her club as first place winner. The club has decided to hang it over the fireplace in the club house.

The total project included many activities and people. Last summer an old fashioned ice cream party was held to raise money for the scholarship fund. Elementary students loaned their art for the enjoyment of the boys and girls at the Arcadia Methodist Hospital. The Woman's Club also displayed paintings in the entry way at the hospital.

An art contest was held at each school in Arcadia with first, second and third place and some honorable mention ribbons awarded.

First place winners from each grade level from each school, K-9th grade were then judged with first place winners from each of the other schools to determine the first, second, third and honorable mentions representing the entire Arcadia School District.

On February 3, all winners from each school as well as the District were honored at a tea where a clothesline art show in the Woman's Club displayed their talent. Also in this show were the winners of the Hallmark and Poster contests from the high school.

Members of the Arcadia Woman's Club also entered the Woman's Club division. Mrs. Willliam Orr won sweepstakes at the Verdugo District Art Festival.

Still another interesting feature of the year-long project was sponsoring Mrs. Moore's Drama class from First Avenue who presented a historical sketch, "The Birth of the Penny Art Fund" at the Verdugo District Art Festival.

The Woman's club honored the Hallmark and poster winners and their teacher, Mrs. Lubin at a luncheon where scholarships were presented. The Club also contributed to the Penny art fund, visited art museums, encouraged young people to paint and in general promoted art in Arcadia.

Mrs. Schinke attributes the success of the project to the cooperation of her club, the many teachers and principals, Dr. Burtis Taylor and Walter Hoeflein, Methodist Hospital administrator.

The project for 1969 begins June 1 and the art contest for the students will end on Friday, January 31, 1969. Information and contest rules will be sent to teachers during the second week of school

For further information, call Mrs. Schinke at 445-1678.

Clubwomen 'sound off'

Sat next to Mildred Erickson at the Woman's Club "Meet the Celebrities" luncheon last week. She was telling me about the wonderful program the music section of the club had heard the day before. Rosary Peterson and Barbara Regan had been scheduled to sing duets but Barbara had developed a severe case of laryngitis and Rosary sang a group of solo numbers including many familiar favorites and excrepts from many stage shows. Mildred said she had an absolutely lovely soprano voice.

In addition the contestants for the District Musical Scholarships rendered selections on which to be judged. Contestants included Sue Minkley, oboist; Renee Rumbaugh, pianist; and Georganne Cassat, harpist. The three girls are seniors at Arcadia High School.

Georganne was chosen to represent the Arcadia Club at the Fine Arts Festival scheduled for Feb. 15 at the Sierra Madre Woman's Club.

HUSBAND-WIFE TEAM of Mildred and Gordon Gordon, who write under the name of The Gordons, authors of the humorous novel, "Undercover Cat Prowls Again," the sequel to the Doubleday book that became Walt Disney film "That Darn Cat," will be guest speakers at Arcadia Woman's Club.

Authors Guests in Arcadia

Are you a Walt Disney fan? Did you see the movie "That Darn Cat"? Do you enjoy poetry? Are you a mother or grandmother who has read Dorothy Westlake Andrews' books to your children or grand children?

If you are in one of these categories, you will want to attend the Jan. 24 luncheon of the Woman's Club of Arcadia and meet the Gordons (Mildred and Gordon), Virginia Brasier and Dorothy Westlake Andrews.

The Gordons have created 14 novels, six of which have been filmed. Their works have sold more than 10 million copies and have been translated into 13 languages.

The Gordons are best known for "Undercover Cat" which sold 1,300,000 copies; won awards from the Writers Guild of America, the American Humor Society and the Mystery Writers of America, and became the Disney film "That Darn Cat."

Their latest novel is a sequel, "Undercover Cat Prowls again." Another of their books "Power Play," a suspense novel, was a Readers Digest Book Club selection. Their "Operation Terror" was filmed as "Experiment in Terror" with Glenn Ford and Lee Remick as stars.

Both Gordons are graduates of the University of Arizona. They started out as newspaper people. For three years, he was an F.B.I. agent assigned to counter espionage cases.

Virginia Brasier has written two volumes of poetry, "Adam's Rib" and "Survival of the Unicorn." She has had 5000 works published in magazines in the United States, Canada and Britain. She is a member of the California Writers Guild and taught poetry at Pasadena City College evening division. She won the Browning Poetry prize and has given lectures in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Pasadena.

Dorothy Westlake Andrews, author, lecturer and teacher, has written 10 books for children. "God's World and Johnny," selling more than one million copies, has been published in several languages. She is a member of the executive board of California Writer's Club and the National Charity League. She's in Who's Who in California and Who's Who in American Women. She is now on the staff of Mt. San Antonio Junior College as a lecturer and is the wife of an F.B.I. agent.

The club believes that the opportunity of meeting four such talented authors should appeal to the men of the community as well as to the women and invited husbands who have the time to attend. Luncheon reservations are $1.75 each and may be made with Mrs. James Goodwin, 447-1543, before Jan. 22.

Woman's Club Celebrities Day

Authors tell their stories

By MARILYN MORRISON
News-Post Staff Writer

Members of the Arcadia Woman's Club had the rare privilege of hearing four members of the literary world at their "Meet the Celebrities" luncheon meeting.

The program was under the auspices of the Literature department chairmaned by Mrs. Archie Wilson. Introduction of guests was handled by Mrs. Bruce G. McAbery, who had arranged the program.

The celebrities included Dorothy Westlake Andrews lecturer, teacher and author of "God's World and Johnny"; Virginia Brazier, reknown poetess, and Mildred and Gordon Gordon, husband and wife collaborators of entertainment novels.

Mrs. Andrews is a woman of great warmth and compassion and claims that everyone has a "story to tell." It is her feeling that the art of story telling needs to be rejuvenated. She suggested to all present that they take time to seek out the children within the realm of their love and attempt to engulf them with the beauty of God's world. A child, she further explained, is exposed to so much ugliness.

Her book "God's World and Johnny" has sold over a 1,000,000 copies and has been printed in four languages. She has written other books for children. She told the audience she is a compulsive author, doing her best works when "angry, emotional, or broke."

Poetess Virginia Brazier, Mrs. Charles Perlee, explained that she has cleared the deck (of her children), and now is writing nothing but poetry. She has written two volumes of poetry "Adam's Rib" and "Survival of the Unicorn," and in addition, has had over 5,000 of her works published. Unlike the first guest, her writing is on a planned schedule. To her, writing poetry takes infinite patience and careful planning "to put on paper what you want to say."

She delighted the audience with readings from "Survival of the Unicorn," a recent creation, "Pleasure Fair is Over"; and concluded with a soul searching work entitled "Starlift." She prefaced her last reading with the comment "a beautiful name for something hideous."

The husband and wife team of Mildred and Gordon Gordon captivated the audience with a fresh, crisp, presentation interspersed with bits of domestic humor.

Mrs. Gordon's serene countenance gave no hint as to the saucy wit she would use to explain how she edited herself into an author, and in doing so sentenced herself to 50 years at hard labor. She claims that writing is hard work and anything she writes is by accident, coupled with brute force.

Dapper Gordon Gordon expounded on the "task master techniques" he employs to keep the little author in line.

Together the Gordon's have written fourteen novels, six of which have been made into movies. Their works have sold more than 10,000,000 copies and have been translated into thirteen languages. They are best known for "Undercover Cat" which became the Walt Disney movie "That Darn Cat."

Gordon explained that their books are not intended to deliver a social message, rather they are written to give their reader an opportunity to "cut themselves away." It is their desire to inspire charm and thrill their literary audience.

Mrs. Archie L. Wilson, Literature Chairman for the Arcadia Women's Club chats with authors prior to the "Meet the Celebrities" luncheon held last week at the clubhouse. Standing is Dorothy Westlake Andrews, seated left, Virginia Brasier and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gordon. Event was well attended. Introductions were given by Mrs. Bruce McAbery. Following the program the authors autographed books available to the audience.
